Gender Perspective in Poverty Eradication

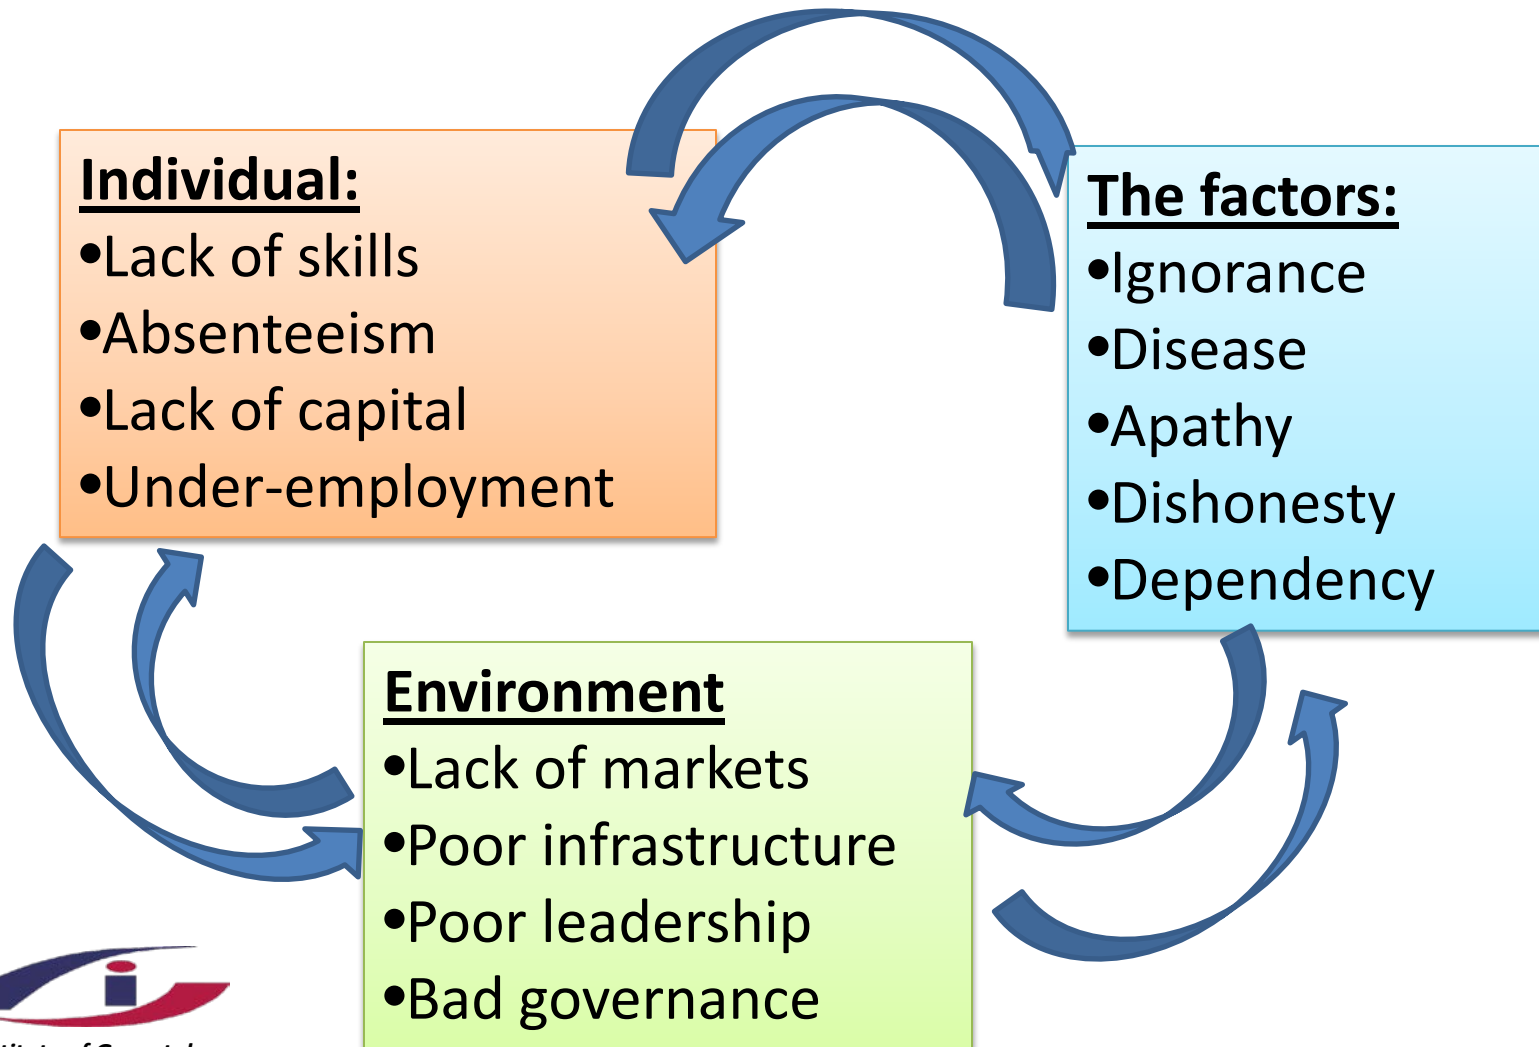

Gender Perspective

- Poverty eradication programs targeted the household heads (automatically men).
- The gender perspective looks at the impact of gender on people's opportunities (men and women), social roles and interactions
- Poverty is a multi-dimensional social problem.

Poverty As Social Problems

Gender Issues in Poverty Eradication

- Fisher women marginalized, discriminated and deprived of their rights to receive support since fishermen=men (example: Bruit Island, Sarawak) due to gender stereotype.
- Women's roles invisible and unrecognized.
- Focus on income poverty eradication only.
- Women only program addressing practical needs, lack of integration in the mainstream development

Recommendations

- Redefine poverty target: the head of households
- Regards poverty as social problems
- Focus on family as unit and identify the most at risk persons and the potential contributors to poverty eradication program in the short term and long term to ensure sustainability.
- Increase gender sensitivity among policy makers, program planners and researchers to rethink assumption and practice

Rethinking Assumption
Rethinking Practice

Gender-sensitive policies

Gender-neutral

Interventions intended to leave distribution of resources and responsibilities intact

Gender-specific

Interventions intended to meet targeted needs of one or other gender within resources and responsibilities

Gender-redistributive

Interventions intended to transform existing distributions in a more egalitarian direction

Conclusions

- Despite growth in the fishing sector in Malaysia, poverty remain a concern especially among small scale aquaculture and fishing communities.
- Lack of sex disaggregated and household data to enable better understanding of poverty among fishing households.
- Mainstreaming gender in the fishing sector.
